FACING A PROBLEM

THE CHINCH BUG PEST STARES FARMER IN THE FACE.

THIRD YEAR IN STATE

State Entomologist Discusses the Problem and Suggests Measures to Combat Their Ravages.

Missouri farmers are again facing the chinch bug problem. Leonard Haseman, state entomologist, said:

"This is the third year the present outbreak has attracted attention in Missouri, and even four years ago it was at work in Kansas. Two years ago it was scarce, though in some cases it does injury tb wheat in the west central counties of this state. Last year it had advanced across Missouri and was attracting attention in Illinois. The main injury last year was in the west central counties. The records received so far this spring show that the heavy loss again is to occur in West Central and Central Missouri, though later it will probably be found troublesome over much of the wheat belt of the state.

"The latter part of June or early in July the chinch bugs are obliged to search for a new supply of food, and as most of them are as yet without wings they migrate on foot, so that barriers placed around the infested fields help greatly. There are two good types of barriers, the dust and oil or tar barriers. The aim is to destroy as many of the bugs of the first brood as possible and prevent them from getting into other crops to rear the second brood, which lives through the winter.

"The dust barriers are very effective and easily maintained so long as rain does not interfere. The plan is to keep a supply of fine, dry, hot dust over which the bugs attempt to crawl during the hot part of the day. The heat destroys many and the fine dust closes the breathing pores and smothers those not overcome by the heat.

"A dust barrier can be made by plowing a strip ten or fifteen feet wide and thoroughly working it until a fine dust mulch is formed. It is best to plow the strip before the ground gets too dry and hard and then be ready to work it into a fine dust when the bugs begin to migrate. During the migration period, which may last from one to two weeks, it is necessary that a weighted brush, harrow or other device be dragged back and forth over the dust strip to keep the dust stirred up from about 10 o'clock until 4 in the afternoon when the bugs are most active.

"Another simple dust barrier is made by plowing a deep ditch, throwing the dirt both ways, and then drag a log back and forth so as to produce a bed of fine dust in the bottom. This makes an excellent barrier and few bugs will cross it, if the log is dragged back and forth during the hot part of the day.

"Dust barriers are all that we need during dry weather, but in case of rain we must establish an oil or tar barrier. A thick viscid road oil similar to No. 7 of the Standard Oil company gives even better results than the tar. Before applying the oil a low, well packed ridge should be made. Then by using an ordinary sprinkling can with the sprinkler removed, or better still by attaching a hose to the barrel of oil, one can run a narrow line of oil along the ridge. This line must be kept fresh by adding more oil from time to time. At first it may be necessary to apply the oil twice a day but later only once in two or three days. The line of oil should not be more than an inch wide. Post holes every rod or so on the side of the line next to the infested field will help to trap the swarms of migrating bugs, where they can be killed by means of a little coal oil. A mile of this type of barrier can be maintained throughout the migration period for less than $5. A barrel of this will cost about $3, and every farmer should have a barrel of it on hand. The oil, or tar barrier repels the bugs and as they run along the line they tumble into the post holes.

"If farmers will co-operate in fighting the bugs with the barriers during the summer few will succeed in reaching corn or other crops and those can be killed by sprinkling them with strong soap suds or tobacco tea or by burning with a flame. But where careful summer work is not done swarms of bugs will be collected during the fall in meadows and pastures in bunch grass and other grasses and sedges, under leaves and other protection. All such harboring places should be burned over in the early winter when it is dry and the wind is not too strong. This does away with the swarms which fly to wheat in the spring.

"Farmers in chinch bug sections can not hope to check the ravages of the pest until they unite and co-operate in fighting the pest. The Missouri college of agriculture, Columbia, Mo., will be glad to supply information and to assist in every way possible."

DRAG THE CORN FIELDS!

Sam Jordan Urges Farmers to Save Moisture For Crops.

Farmers are urged by S. M. Jordan of Sedalia to drag their corn fields to save the moisture of recent rains and help insure a good yield this year. In a statement to corn growers, the head of the Pettis county bureau of agriculture says:

"A splendid rain, but it will very likely get fiercely dry and hot again. Prepare for it.

"As soon as the ground dries there will be a crust on the ground, and this crust will soon be full of cracks and these are like chimneys to let the air take the water from the soil; so for your own sake break the crust. Make the dust mulch again.

"This fine rain should do much toward making the corn crop if we will but do our part and take care of it. Some sort of a drag is best. Corn that has been rightly tended has not suffered to speak of and the ground is literally filled with corn roots. Don't cut them off—be on the safe side by treating the field just as if there will be no more rain till September. If there is more rain you lose nothing and if no more rain comes you will be a great gainer.

"To take care of this rain by breaking the crust as soon as the ground is dry enough is our job, not the Lord's.

"Will we do it?

"Now, boys, all pull together, as we have a chance at the greatest corn crop we ever grew.

"I think in most cases when corn has suffered lately it has been where the cultivator has been used in the last ten days. I have been in many corn fields during that time and I find the best conditions are where the cultivator was used the first and perhaps a second time, and since that the roller, harrow or drag, and some did not get the work of the cultivator at all.

"In ground put in good condition if examination is made it will be found that you cannot plow at all without plowing up corn roots. Every corn root disturbed does that much harm.

"Make a drag of some sort. You can do it in an hour. Best to make two and use two horses. One driver can do that and you can make four rows at a round, twice the speed of the one-row cultivator."

AN ALFALFA TRAIN

ALFALFA CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN FIRST WEEK OF AUGUST.

SIX MEN WILL LECTURE

Five Lectures Out in Country and One at Edge of Town, All in the Alfalfa Fields.

A campaign for alfalfa on every farm in Nodaway county has begun, and an alfalfa day will be held here during the first week in August, probably August 1 or 2. The campaign is being directed by the Burlington railroad and the International Harvester company, and they will send out a special alfalfa train with six of the best alfalfa experts in the United States to lecture to the farmers on the raising of that crop.

J. B. Lamson, agriculturist of the Burlington road; C. J. Nelson, traveling freight agent of that system, and R. W. Lamson, representing the International Harvester company, were in Maryville this morning, a day earlier than expected, to arrange details of the campaign and alfalfa day here. John I. Hoffman, secretary of the Commercial club, was appointed to take charge of the local end of the campaign, and will start the work at once.

The distinctive feature of the campaign is the method in which the lectures and demonstrations will be given alfalfa day. They will be given in the alfalfa fields around Maryville. When the special train reaches town it will be met by automobiles and five of the six lecturers will be taken at once to the fields selected to talk to the farmers there. The sixth man will hold a central meeting in one of the several alfalfa fields at the edge of town. One hour will be given for the lectures, and one hour will be given to the trip to and from the fields. With the five lectures outside of town the farmers in every community around Maryville will have an opportunity to attend. Among the lecturers will be Prof. P. G. Holden, the agricultural expert, former head of the Iowa State Agricultural college and well known for the aid he has given the Iowa farmers.

This campaign will not end with alfalfa day. The name of every man who attends the meeting will be taken, and if he wants to put in a field of alfalfa an expert will be sent to help him select the proper ground and prepare it, and to see that good seed is planted. The only obligation to the farmer will be to see that the man is given board and room. The companies conducting the campaign will pay his salary and transportation.

When the exact date of the day has been set the people here will be notified, and the train will run exactly on schedule time, so that all the lectures can be given as planned. In case of rain a central meeting will be held in Maryville.

The entire county is to be visited by these lecturers. Tuesday the advance men were in Barnard and appointed John A. Fields chairman of the local campaign there. Today they will go to Pickering and Hopkins to arrange for campaigns from those towns. The other towns in the county to be visited are Burlington Junction, Clearmont, Skidmore and Quitman.

John S. Bilby in Kansas City.

According to the Kansas City Drovers Telegram John S. Bilby, formerly of Quitman, was in that city Tuesday. The paper says:

John S. Bilby, 82 years of age, and one of the best known land owners and stockmen in this country, was seen riding a horse about the quarantine division today looking after a shipment of cattle he brought in from Broken Arrow, Okla. Besides owning thousands of acres of land in Missouri and Oklahoma, Mr. Bilby owns 140,000 acres of good land in Kent county, Texas.

WILL CLOSE THURSDAY.

The Barnard Chautauqua Has Been Big Success and Guarantee is Made for 1914.

The Barnard Chautauqua closes tomorrow night, ending a six days session, which has been well attended and proven a success in spite of the damage done by the storm Sunday night. A canvass was taken at Tuesday night's sesion to see how many tickets would be guaranteed for next year. Three hundred and two were subscribed for, a good start on a guarantee, and it is probable that a Chautauqua will be given by the same management next year.

Since the storm the programs have been given without a break, and yesterday's sessions were held in the tent, which had been moved to the school grounds. The Meneley quartet furnished the entertainment both afternoon and evening Tuesday. There was a good attendance at both sessions. This afternon Fred M. Black gave a program of music and readings, which was followed by a lecture by Rev. L. W. Klinker. They will also give this evening's program. The session closes tomorrow with two lectures by Hon. Charles J. Hall, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, and music by Rolla Kimsey.

After leaving Maryville Will Stockton lived in Stanberry and later at Beatrice, Neb., where his children grew up. They moved to Denver several months ago. Mr. Stockton was a traveling salesman. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and a son. He spent a day in Maryville during the street fair last fall with his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hempstead.

OLD RESIDENT DIED.

Burial services took place in Cain cemetery, west of Maryville.

Mrs. Baker was 82 years old and had been a member of the Christian church over sixty years. Her maiden name was Rachel Pearson, and she was born in Scott county, Ind., March 8, 1831. DIDN'T GET MEN

SHERIFF WALLACE RETURNED FROM IOWA DISAPPOINTED.

NOT ENOUGH EVIDENCE

Iowa Authorities Wouldn't Turn Over Men Wanted for Holding Up Geo. Black of Trenton.

Sheriff Ed Wallace went to Shenandoah, Ia., Tuesday after Peg Conklin, Yats Kinder and Buzzard Hawk, who, according to the victim's story, held up and robbed George Black of Trenton at the Wabash trestle, east of Maryville, Saturday night. Although the three men were in Shenandoah, Sheriff Wallace had to return to Maryville without them, as the Shenandoah authorities did not think the evidence was sufficient to warrant the arrest and surrender of the men to Mr. Wallace.

The Shenandoah World contained the following story of the case:

Shenandoah officials have been looking for three men who are in this vicinity and who are wanted in Maryville for robbery, since yesterday morning. Their names are Peg-leg Conklin, Hawk and Kinder.

They arrived in Shenandoah Sunday evening via the Wabash. They hung around the Wabash that night and yesterday morning early were around on Main street for about an hour. Then they disappeared and while they have not been located it is thought their whereabouts is pretty definitely known. As they have left the city limits their case has been turned over to Sheriff Grafton, who expects to arrest and hold them for the Maryville officers.

Word was received Sunday evening from Maryville that they were wanted, but not sufficient explanation was given in the message to warrant Shenandoah officers holding them. When completer explanation was finally received they had left town.

Some new parts will have to be built. The bridge will be put up in time for the Barnard picnic the first week in August. On account of the washout of the bridge the tent of the Barnard Chautauqua was moved from the picnic grounds to the school grounds in town.

"The Jolly Set" gave a surprise party Tuesday evening for W. O. Garrett, at his home, north of Maryville. Mrs. Garrett was in league with the perpetrators, so that their scheme to surprise the host came out splendidly. Dominoes occupied the company until a very late hour, when refreshments were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Catterson, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Egley, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Eckert, and the children of these families, and Mr. D. T. Foster of Ottumwa, Ia., who is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. O. Garrett.

Attended House Party.

Miss Bertha Tobin of Burlington Junction was in Maryville Wednesday, returning home from a week-end house party at Clyde, given by Miss Lucy Bliley, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bliley. The party ended with a dance Monday evening. The house party guests were Gerald Bliley, Mrs. George Bliley and daughter of St. Joseph, Dr. Harry Bell of Kansas City and Miss Tobin. Miss Tobin went to Clyde from Dubuque, Ia., where she visited her sister, Sister Inez of St. Francis convent, and also attended the reception and consecration ceremonies for twenty-one Sisters, Sister Inez among them, on June 24.

Planned Annual Meeting.

The Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon in a postponed meeting from the Fourth, at the home of Mrs. E. L. Harrington. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Mary Trueblood in the absence of the president, Mrs. Eugene Ogden. The program was made up of two papers that brought out lively discussion from all. They were given by Miss Ada Albert, who told of the recent meeting of the northern Baptist convention, and Mrs. Frank Shepherd, who told of the meeting of the southern Baptist convention at St. Louis. After this preparations were begun for the society's annual picnic and election of officers that will be held on the church lawn in August, by the appointment of committees.

Mrs. G. A. Wilson of Hershey, Neb., who has been visiting relatives at Pickering, went to Parnell Wednesday to visit other relatives.

TELLS OF BATTLE WITH MOROS

General Bell Cables Account of Desperate Combat in Jolo.

FIVE DAYS OF FIERCE WAR.

Moros Rush on Troops With Barongs and Hurling Spears—Officers and Men Without Exception Behave With Admirable Courage.

Washington, July 9.—A hair-raising story of a hand-to-hand conflict with spear-hurling Moro savages, of a battle to the death on an isolated mountain top, with no quarter given or expected, was cabled to the war department from the Philippines by Major General Bell. It was the commanding general's report on the campaign of Brigadier General Pershing, which resulted in the extermination of the last considerable band of rebellious Moros and the complete disarmament of this warlike tribe.

Long ago most of the Moros gave up their arms peacefully, but the fierce tribesmen of Latiward, embracing about twenty square miles on the north coast of the island of Jolo, made ready for war whenever there was a suggestion of depriving them of their weapons.

Stampede to Bagsak.

Recently nearly ten thousand of them stampeded to Mount Bagsak, a wild peak which they believed impregnable. Many conferences and patient diplomacy drove most of them away and sent them to their homes, but three or four hundred of the most desperate fortified their stronghold and prepared to fight it out with the American nation.

"When no reasonable hope of a peaceful conclusion remained," says General Bell in his report, "Brigadier General Pershing arrived at Jolo with boats during the night of June 10, secretly embarked his command, and, landing nearby, surrounded Bagsak the same night to prevent a stampede of the women and children and noncombatants to the mountain again. Assaults began at daylight, fierce fighting, part of its hand-to-hand, during five days, marked by tenacious resistance and counter attacks from Moros rushing on troops with barongs and hurling spears at the storming lines.

Foe Completely Defeated.

"The control of troops by the officers was admirable—thus preventing a greater number of casualties. The enemy was completely defeated and all the strongholds were finally taken. None of the Moros would surrender; some escaped, but the remainder were killed, including Amil and his principal lieutenants, during the engagement.

"Our mountain guns, dragged up the mountain by block and tackle, finally reached commanding positions and rendered material assistance. Apparently officers and men behaved without exception with admirable courage and determination, though constantly on duty five days and nights of little rest and torrential rains.

Praise for Pershing.

"Brigadier General Pershing personally planned and conducted the Bagsak operations, commanding the forces in person and sharing all hardships and dangers of the troops. From all information obtainable the ordeals undergone are believed to be surpassing. He had been subjected to much criticism because of patient negotiations, forbearance and efforts to avoid a resort to fighting, but succeeded in avoiding unnecessary injury to noncombatants and minimized casualties in his own command."

LOSER ATTEMTS HIS L'FE

St. Louis Man Speculates to Buy Farm for His Mother.

St. Louis, July 9.—H. W. Michel, a member of the Merchants' exchange of St. Louis, who was also a mail carrier, attempted to kill himself at the exchange with a razor. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Michel said his losses would possibly total $8,000, the saving of a lifetime.

Michel's mother said that he first began speculating last fall in order to get enough money to buy a farm and assure her a life income of $100 a month. She vainly urged him to stop after he lost the first $900.

END BEEF CASE INDICTMENT

New Jersey Judge Takes Action in "Trust" Affair.

New York, July 9.—Supreme Court Justice Swayze in Jersey City dismissed the indictments against twenty-six companies and individuals alleged to be in the beef trust. This step was taken on application by Prosecutor Hudspeth, on the ground that the indictments had been standing three years and there had been no attempt to prosecute the defendants.

Pays Blood Debt With Life.

Lowell Mass., July 8.—George A. Richardson, a member of a wealthy and prominent family of this city killed himself with a revolver after bemoaning for more than a year the killing of a man when he was driving his automobile. After the automobile accident Richardson refused to enter an automobile and became a recluse.

Will Live With Niece.

Miss Lydia Wilbur, whose residence on South Market street, opposite the First Baptist church, was thrown from its foundation in the storm of Sunday night, has taken up her home with her niece, Mrs. O. A. Spickerman and family, 309 South Saunders street. Miss Wilbur was 80 years old the 26th of June, and was making arrangements to go and live with Mrs. Spickerman, as the burden of housekeeping for herself was getting to be too much for her. She was not injured in the least and was very little frightened by the storm's work. The plight she was in was discovered almost immediately by her neighbor, Mrs. Anna Miller, who, with the assistance of her son, forced the door of the toppling cottage and took Miss Wilbur to her own home, where she remained until the household goods were removed to the Spickerman residence.

IT'S A MISTAKE.

Made by Many Maryville Residents.

Many people in a misguided effort to get rid of kidney backache, rely on plasters, liniments and other makeshifts. The right treatment is kidney treatment and a remarkably recommended kidney medicine is Doan's Kidney Pills. Maryville is no exception.

The proof is at your very door. The following is an experience typical of the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Maryville.

J. A. Murphy, 805 East Fourth street, Maryville, Mo., says: "Some years ago I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am just as strong in my praise of them now as I was then. I got my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Love & Gaugh's drug store, and I do not hesitate to say that they are very reliable in curing kidney trouble and lame back."

AIRMEN DUCKED IN THE LAKE

Two of Three Hydro-Aereaplanes Wrecked by Squall.

Two Machines Are Abandoned, but Third Craft Reaches Michigan City Safely and Continues on Way—Jannus and Johnson Rescued from Lake.

Chicago, July 9.—Two out of three hydro-aeroplanes which started from Chicago to fly to Detroit were wrecked over Lake Michigan by squalls and fell into the waves far from land. Anthony Jannus of St. Louis and his mechanic, Paul McCullough, were picked up off South Chicago by the steam dredge Dahlke. Johnson of New York, flying alone, was rescued near Whiting, Ind., by the South Chicago United States life saving crew. Jannus' machine was abandoned. The life savers brought Johnson's craft to shore and he may resume his flight.

Beckwith Havens, carrying as passenger J. P. R. Verplank of Fishkill, N. Y., owner of the machine, reached Michigan City in safety, the only one of the ten aviators originally scheduled to start who made the first lap.

Jannus First to Leave.

Jannus was the first to leave Chicago. Havens followed ten minutes later. Johnson's start was delayed by engine trouble.

Jannus had trouble from the start. He ran into a thunderstorm with fierce squalls of wind when he had covered half the distance. The machine was forced to descend, but the lake was so rough that it was with difficulty that Jannus and McCullough could keep afloat. The men were paddling desperately in the effort to keep the craft right side up when the dredger steamed up to them and threw them lines. The rescue was just in time, as a few minutes later such a squall blew up that the Dahlke found it impossible to tow the aircraft and was obliged to cast it adrift. The hydro-aeroplane drifted out of sight in a few minutes, apparently a wreck, with its wings torn and broken. Jannus and McCullough were almost exhausted. They were revived in the cabin of the dredger and a short time after being landed were able to proceed to Chicago by train.

JUDGE REJECTS JURY REPORT

Contained Strictures Upon President Wilson and Attorney General.

San Francisco, July 9.—Because it contained strictures upon the course of President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds, in connection with the resignation of United States District Attorney John L. McNab, the report of the federal grand jury, before which was presented the evidence in the Diggs and Caminetti "white slave" cases, the postponement of which led to McNab's resignation, was rejected by Judge William C. Van Fleet in the United States district court. Judge Van Fleet declared he would not permit the report as it stood to become a part of the court record.

Robinson Re-elected Grand Secretary at Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., July 9.—Grand Treasurer Edward Leach of New York was elected grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to succeed Thomas B. Mills of Superior, Wis. Mr. Leach was opposed by J. Cookman Boyd of Baltimore. The vote was: Leach, 1,119; Boyd, 392. Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson of Dubuque, Ia., was re-elected in a three cornered fight.

Other officers chosen are: Leading knight, P. H. Shields of Clarksburg, W. Va.; loyal knight, H. H. Jennings of Bridgeport, Conn.; lecturing knight, E. M. Dickering of Tucson, Ariz.

WOMAN JURY ACQUITS WOMAN

Initial California "Juressy" Holds Doubt Favored Defendant.

San Francisco, July 9.—Judge Dunne's court room was crowded when the first woman jury to appear in a felony case in California took their seats in the box. Incidentally one juress was five minutes late.

The jury, after two hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty, giving the accused woman the benefit of the doubt, holding the prosecution had not proved intent at blackmail.

Eleven of the women in the box were married and had a mature look. The twelfth was a single woman and much younger than her associates.

Grasshoppers Attack Corn.

Dodge City, Kan., July 9.—The corn crop in this part of Kansas is threatened with destruction by grasshoppers, according to statements by leading farmers. The hot weather of the last week has hatched millions of the insects and as the wheat has been harvested, they are attacking the corn.

Circus Employees Shot by Greeks.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 9.—In a battle between Greek laborers and circus hands, three circus hands were fatally shot and two more seriously injured. Posses are hunting for Tom Stevens accused of firing the shots. The fatally hurt are Ed Oakley, Dan Jeffries and an unidentified man.

Summer Board in Colorado Very Moderate Charges

"I'd like to go to Colorado," said a man the other day, "but it costs so much to live there that I'm afraid I—"

"Forget it," said his friend, who had spent a month last summer seeing the show-places of the Wonder State. "I had the same idea myself last year until I got that folder the Burlington gets up telling the hotel rates. And I was mightily surprised to find that, besides the hotels, which are as elaborate as you please, there are hundreds of good, cleanly, wholesome ranch houses in Colorado, where the rates are as low as $8.00 a week, and they give you mighty good fare."

That folder is published by the Burlington Railroad to show folks how they can enjoy a vacation in Colorado at a very reasonable expense. And I'd like to mail you a copy of it—free. It tells all about the country, gives a complete list of hotels and boarding houses, addresses, rates, conveniences, elevation and nearby attractions.

Let me send these, and if you wish I can tell you all about the trains and cost of railway tickets to the most wonderfully charming country in America. Send me a postal quick.
